

Flexible, On-Demand Professional Learning

Maximize time and efficiency with on-demand, asynchronous learning resources

Professional development is critical to educators who are tasked with implementing technology in their classrooms. KnowEdge Academy provides convenient access to on-demand, asynchronous courses that support your Edgenuity implementation through self-paced professional learning. Available as an add-on to our live personalized professional development offerings, KnowEdge Academy personalizes professional development to meet the needs of all educators.

Coordinating a time and place for staff to meet for professional development is a challenge.

On-demand professional learning provides flexibility that enables educators to:

- Acquire knowledge prior to participating in a personalized PD session
- Review what they've learned at their own pace
- Extend their learning based on areas of focus and interest

Asynchronous adult learning

KnowEdge Academy incorporates best practices, including those defined by Andragogy adult learning theory. Learning is self-directed and builds on past-experiences. It allows learners to define personalized, practical integration of their learning and provides opportunities for guided practice prior to application in the classroom.

Learners can:

- Track their own professional learning
- Earn certificates of achievement
- Earn and display virtual badges
- Access Edgenuity product-centric courses
- Access courses that address topics that are most relevant to educators today

Amplify the reach of personalized professional development

KnowlEdge Academy blends asynchronous, self-directed learning with synchronous, personalized professional development so educators benefit from the best of both learning approaches. These flexible options help address common concerns administrators often have with traditional professional development:

- New educators have access to resources to learn the basics and can join more veteran staff for personalized group sessions.
- All staff can revisit the instruction from large-group sessions and practice on their own time, at their own pace.
- Educators who miss sessions can easily catch up asynchronously before the next group session.

Track, display, and share ongoing professional learning

Educators earn virtual badges to show professional study and development, and a certification of completion is available for download upon completion of each course. They can share their professional learning within their own school community as well as in the KnowlEdge community. New content is added and updated regularly to ensure educators are equipped to confidently address their current professional learning needs.
